NEW-YORKISMS.

From Our Own Correspondent

New YORK, April 22, 1870. The Sheltering Arms The Sheltering Arms Bazaar is the great fashionable crush, out of which it is impossible to get without having spent all the money you took into it. It is held in the armory of the 37th Regiment, which is honeycombed into thirty or forty entrancing little booths, fitted up expensively and beautifully. Each one of these booths is presided over by one or two young ladies, and the biggest and most beautiful booth of all has a beyy of the fairest and most fashionable girls in New York for saleswomen. This recess is called the floral bower, or, by a semi-pun, Flora Temple (floral temple), to indicate the fashionable fastness of the sylphs who attend there. The fair is Episcopalian in character, and is lively as Episcopalian fairs usually are. The young ladies who sell wares there are the pick of New York society, and the buyers and visitors in general do not by any means form the social undercrust. There is on exhibition a splendid Weber grand planoforte, which is to be presented to the clergyman's wife who receives the greatest number of votes, every voter naming the one whom he or she particularly fancies. A handsome watch is also in waiting for the clergyman enjoying the greatest number of votes, which are purchasable at fifty cents apiece. One is allowed to vote

Two new newspapers are very soon to be started in this city. One of them, as I said some weeks ago, is to be called the Age, and to be placed under the charge of Dr. Wood, one of the principal men at present employed by the Sun. The Doctor will make a splendid managing editor for the newspaper, for he is an untiring and indefatigable worker. I never see him without being reminded of a skeletopized flower, his countenance and beard rapidly bleaching under the influence of midnight paste and for whomsoever one pleases, and truth to tell the Pope's chances are not bad. It would be a significant fact in connection with an Episcopal celebration if the Pope were thus to prove his superior claims to popularity over all competitors.

Two New Papers.

The other paper to which I referred is that which is to be started by a young Philadelphiau whose name as a journalist is familiar to every one in the United States conversant with newspaper matters. The fact that he is to start one is well known and freely discussed in newspaper circles, but since the preliminary work has been done quietly, and a premature publicity is scarcely desirable, I will not bestow it by mentioning in this connection either his name or that of the journal he is to create. It is enough that he starts it backed with the three most prominent necessities for such an enterprise eash, brains, and experience. Some of his coadjutors will be old friends; all of them will belong to the large class whom he has inspired with sympathy in his fortunes and admiration for his extraordinary abilities.

Luth to Relinquish. All our female teachers-to a man-have united in a petition to the Board of Education to restore corporal punishment. This petition, mark, comes from the ladies, not from the men. They say that while there are some gentle and gentlemanly boys in every school, who obey without being ratanned into it, there are many others, between the ages of thirteen and sixteen principally, who will yield no obedience unless they can be made to physically smart. This declaration is thought by many fathers especially in connection with some recent repulsive extracts on the subject from the Englishmornan's Magazine.

Mysteriously Heard From. About a week ago Frederick Bennett, a bright boy of fifteen, left the store of his employer in Water street, New York, with $350 in his possession to deposit in the Manhattan Bank. He did not return, and he has not returned since. The only clue to what has become of him is a note that has been received by his employers, and that represents him to be confined in a sort of dungeon the whereabouts of which he has no means of knowing. He implores them to use whatever means they can to find out where he is, and to come to his assistance, intimating that he is treated horribly. He says that he was attacked suddenly in the street by a man who mopped his face with a saturated sponge, which made him unconscious, and that when he recovered he found himself in the dungeon whence he dates his note. The singular fact about the note is that it was mailed at the New York post office.

The New York Industrial Exhibition Company. The bill has at length passed the Legislature incorporating the New York Industrial Exhibition Company. The men of capital who support this enterprise mean to keep up a perpetual World's Fair there. A New York morning paper makes the absurd statement that at the opening of the London Crystal Palace of 1851, twenty-five thousand persons participated. If five thousand did, that was all. No doubt, however, but that a much larger number will assist at the opening of the building to be erected by the New York Industrial Exhibition Company, Some central stir like this is needed. In the line of simple amusement and relaxation Gothamites have been stirred and thrilled quite as much as is good for them. Now they need a raking up financially and commercially. ALI BABA.

MUSICAL AND DRAMATIC.

"The Bride of Lammermoor" is simpler and more direct in theme than any of Scott's novels. and it is distinguished by a genuine tragic inspiration such as he was seldom able to command. The plot adheres closely to a series of actual occurrences that were remembered by many persons living at the time the work appeared, and the novelist has only used the license of his art in the arrangement of his accessories and in the sequence of his incidents. He has intensified the darker shades of his picture by some of those finely humorous descriptions of Scottish life and character-notably so in the person of that prince of major domos, "Mr. Caleb Balderstone"-and by his skilful use of the popular superstitions of the country, the idea of an overruling Fate, as impenetrable and relentless as that of a Greek tragedy, is represented as deciding the fortunes of the luckless lovers. "The Bride of Lammermoor" is probably not as popular with many readers and not as extensively read as some of the other writings of the same author, but in the opinion of many it is Scott's magnus opus, and it is likely to be remembered when some of his other performances have fallen into neglect. The dramatic character of the story, and the powerful scenes with which it concludes, are eminently adapted for stage representation, and both as a drama and as an opera it has achieved a success even greater than in its original shape, Donizetti's opera of Lucia di Lammermoor has the advantage of a | well-constructed libretto, in which the essential features of the original are judiciously compressed into three brief acts. It presents a series of picturesque stage effects, and a prominence is given to the character of the heroine that does not belong to it in the novel, but which adds greatly to the interest of the opera. The "mad" scene in the third act, especially, is an important interpolation, that has furnished the composer with an opportunity which he has made the most of. The subject of this opera was evidently a congenial one, and Donizetti has lavished upon it all the resources of his genius. It contains some of the most fascinating airs that ever proceeded from his pen, and it is deservedly popular with all classes of opera-goers. A few years ago it was given regularly several times in each season, but for some reason or other it has been neglected of late, and its production last evening had much of the charm of novelty. It is well to let even works of decided merit have a rest sometimes, if only for the sake of variety, and Lucia was undoubtedly listened to with more attention last evening from the fact that it has been in retirement for several years; but now that it has been brought before the public again, it might be given by our operatic managers with advantage as a substitute for some of the operas that are beginning to have an air of tiresome familiarity about them. One of the reasons why some of the Italian troupes that visit this city are not better patronized is that they take no pains to vary their reperloire, but they treat us to a regular round of some dozen operas season after season until the public begin to lose interest in them. With a little tact and good taste an agreeable variety could be presented without going outside of the list of works that have been marked most decidedly with the public approval. There was a good audience in attendance at the Academy of Music last evening, and the applause was hearty and discriminating. The performance passed off with spirit, and taking all its deficiencies into consideration, it was much better and more satisfactory than has frequently been given by combinations of much greater pretensions. "Edgardo" is one of Signor Brigneli's best roles, and although he does not act a bit better than he did ten years ago, he sings the beautiful and passionate music in a style that no other tenor upon the stage can approach. Brignoli was in excellent voice last evening, and, although some of the flute-like tones of the days of yore are wanting, yet he maintains his oid pre-eminence above all his rivals, and his admirers are fain to recognize him still as the greatest tenor of the day.

Miss McCulloch, who appeared as "Lucia," has improved greatly since she last appeared in this city, and although she is scarcely equal to all the requirements of the role, she gave a most acceptable performance, the decided merits of which were cordially recognized by the audience. Miss McCulloch has a sweet and sympathetic voice, and considerable ability as an actress. She is evidently an enthusiast in her profession, and although she may not reach the topmost round of the ladder of fame, she will always be a reliable and popular artist who will schieve and deserve the favor of her audiences. Many of the faults of Miss McCulloch's style have been corrected, and her singing and acting last evening both presented many points worthy of commendation. In the "mad" scene especially she achieved a decided success, and elicited a round of hearty applause.

Signor Petrilli made a very favorable impreson as "Sir Henry Ashton," and the remaining parts were creditably rendered. The orchestration, under the direction of Signor Giorza, was satisfactory, and the performance altogether was most enjoyable.

The City Amusements.

AT THE ACADEMY OF MUSIC Verdi's opera of Trovatore will be given this evening, with Madame Gazzaniga in the role of the gipsy "Azucena." It is seldom that a first-class artist appears in this important part, and yet it deands greater histrionic ability than any other in the opera. Madame Gazzaniga's pre-eminence as a lyric actress is universally acknowledged, and her first and only appearance as 'Azucena" will doubtless attract a large au-To-morrow there will be a matinee, when Martha will be performed. AT THE CHESNUT The Field of the Cloth of

Gold, with all its amusing features, will be represented this evening. There will be a matinee AT THE WALNUT Mrs. Barney Williams will have a benefit this evening, when she will appear as "Maggie McCarty" in The Eme-

The Emerald Ring will also be represented at the matinee to-morrow.

AT THE ARCH the comedy of The Provoked Husband and the farce of Betsy Baker are announced for this evening.

Mr. Adam Everly's benefit takes place at the Arch Street Theatre on Friday, 29th instant. A good bill will be presented. AT THE ELEVENTH STREET OPERA HOUSE an attractive minstrel entertainment will be given this evening.

AT DUPREZ & BENEDICT'S OPERA HOUSE

a variety of amusing features are announced for Miss Caroline McCappury will give a grand concert this evening at Musical Fund

Hall, in which she will be assisted by a number of popular artists. A first-rate programme will THE PANORAMA OF "THE PILGRIM" WILL be exhibited this evening at Concert Hall for the benefit of Siloam M. E. Church.

A matinee to-morrow. The Sentz-Hassler Orchestra will give a matinee to-morrow at Musical Fund Hall. Miss Carlotta Patti is announced to ap-pear as the "Queen of Night" in Mozart's beautiful opera of The Magic Flute, at the Academy of Music on the evenings of May 2 and 3.

Incidentals.

—A San Franciscan who sued the city for $100,000 on account of the death of his daughter, who was run over by a fire engine, has recovered $5000. -A Chinese cigar-maker at San Francisco has gone to the insane asylum through trying to keep the run of internal revenue decisions regarding the cigar stamps.

-Massachusetts proposes to appoint a Commissioner of Lusacy and Pauperism, to have a general supervision of persons confined for either of these causes in the State institutions. He is to make visits at least once a month to the hospitals, without notice.

—The body of Mr. Robert Harper, of Albany, who disappeared on the 22d of January, was found on Tuesday evening in the Hudson river, at Cocymans. His money and valuables were safe, and no marks of violence were found on the body. The Coroner's jury returned a ver-dict of accidental drowning.

—A Newburg clergyman suddenly stopped in the midst of his sermon on Sunday and sat down. This aroused the sleepers, and he then arose and said he did not propose to preach to persons who were sleeping under his sermon, and he had taken this course to secure a wide-awake audience. He had it.

-The special election for a successor of Mr. Joseph H. Lewis, an ex-Rebel, whose disabilities have been removed, is the Democratic nominee. J. H. Lowry, who has amounced himself, is generally accepted as the Republican candidate.

-The Chicage Times thinks that the Illinois

Constitutional Convention ought to have submitted the question of woman suffrage to the women, with a provision that those women who refused to go to the polls should be counted among the negatives. Ah, but who shall count the women who refuse, and how shall they do it? -An Ogdensburg gentlemen, just returned from Montreal, reports the fear of the Fenians in that city to be intense. The dead walls were placarded with mammoth notices to Americans to quit the city. Five hundred men guarded the Montreal end of the Victoria Bridge to pre-vent a surprise. Recruiting parties were parad-ing the streets and calling for volunteers to repel the invaders. A large detective force has been despatched to the States for the purpose of ascertaining the designs of the Feniaus, and it was reported that the Fenians have been moving into Canada ali winter, and that an army will spring up, mushroom-like, in a night.

-The Hartford Courant has employed a special commissioner to investigate the subject of politeness in street cars, and the result of his observations is stated thus: —A car starts off down the street, having within ten ladies on one side, sitting closely, yet comfortably, together, and ten men on the opposite side. Presently one lady gets out: the other nine unconsciously rise a triffe, shake their skirts, and the seat is full again. Further on another lady departs the eight remaining go through the same cess of rising, and in a twinkling, the seat is still full. A short ride beyond, another lady steps out, leaving seven only, who, by the same sort of spreading, fill the seat again completely. Now enters a lady. On the ladies side there are three persons less than when the car started. vet not one of the remaining seven moves. And so one of the men on the opposite side gives his seat to the new-comer and stands during the rest of the journey.

FROM WASHINGTON.

Enforcement of the Amendment. Despatch to the Annotated Press.

Washington, April 29 .- The Senate Judiclary Committee this morning was engaged in the preparation of a bill to enforce the fifteenth amendment, and made such progress that it is expected a comprehensive measure of that nature will be ready for report early next week.

CONGRESS.

Continued from the Fourth Edition. Mr. Cake moved to add to the duty on scrap iron 10 per cent. ad valorem, and advocated the amendment. Rejected.

nest. Rejected.

The paragraph was passed over without any further amendment being offered.

The next paragraph was the following:—"On all iron in slabs, blooms, loops or other forms, including ends, clippings, and punchings of new iron less finished than bars, and more advanced than pig iron except castings, one cent per pound."

Mr. Brooks (N. Y.) moved to strike out the words, and punchings of new appelings of new including ends, clippings, and punchings of Mr. Kelley opposed the amendment as one which would facilitate the commission of frauds, and he spoke of its being to the interest of the people of Southern Illinois to sustain the Committee of Ways and Means in this matter of iron.

Mr. Logan resented the pretensions of the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. Kelley) to represent the people of Southern Lilinois, and said he had been talking of what he knew nothing about. There was no desire on the part of any man in Lilinois to have that gentleman as a representative in the matter of a tariff. It was, therefore, offensive in that gentleman to make appeals on behalf of the people of Southern Lilinois.

After further discussion by Messrs Randali, Coburn, Beck, and Maynard, Mr. Brooks' amendment was adopted by a vote of 63 to 59.

Mr. Allison moved to amend the paragraph further by striking out the words "one cent per pound," and inserting the words $18 per ton. and Means in this matter of iron.

MEDICAL THE UNIVERSITY MEDICINES ARE THE FAVORITE PRESCRIPTIONS

New York Medical University. Reliable Remedies of a high Scientific character, de-

Reliable Remedies of a high Scientific character, designed for the cure of all diseases.

PREPARED STRICTLY ACCORDING TO THE LAWS OF MasDICAL CHEMISTRY

The University Medicines are prepared in consonance with the views of a number of distinguished living American Physicians, who believe that the time is come when educated Psysicians should arise and make a decisive effort to overthrow the health-destroying system of Quackary prevailing in every fown and city, and substitute SOIRNTIFIC RESPONSIBLE REMIEDIALLS, in place of the worthless or dangerous Patent Medicines flooding the country.

These remedies are prepared by the newly discovered Chemical process of Profesor Scott, termed STRAM FILTRATION, by which the entire Active Principle of any herb, frug, or chemical is theroughly extracted, and its curative properties increased a hundred fold over those made in the ordinary manner.

They are standard, most of the ingredients constituting them having been used by the physicians of the University, in their private practice, for more than twenty years.

Although but recently brought before the public in their present form as FIRESIUE REMEDIES, they are rapidly superseding the old poisons, Patent Medicines and Nauscous Drugs.

They are taken in small doses.

They are pleasant to the taste.

Their effects are almost instantaneous.

There are harmless to all.

We have no one OURE ALL for all diseases, but a regular system of Remedies and a valuable Medical Book ent free to any address.
